After pressing button 1 for Space War, the playing field will appear on the screen along with an S?. The game is asking you if you want to start. While the S? is on the screen, the left player's starship will be positioned above the starbase in the upper left corner of the screen. The right player's starship will be positioned below the starbase in the lower right corner of the screen. The numbers on the bottom of the screen are the player's scores. The numbers to the left of center is the number of enemy starships the left player has obliterated. The number to the right of center is the number of enemy starships the right player has obliterated.

The TIME and MODE options are not used in Space War.

STARTING PLAY. Press the START button to start the game. After the START button has been pressed, the S? disappears and two more numbers appear at the bottom of the screen. The left number indicates how many energy units the left starship has, the right number indicates how many energy units the right starship has. Each starship starts out with 90 energy units.

HOW THE HAND CONTROLLERS WORK IN SPACE WAR. Always orient the recessed triangle on the top of the hand controller toward the TV screen.

Starships can move anywhere on the screen with the following hand controller movements:

PUSHING FORWARD (away from you) moves the starship up (towards the top of the screen)

PULLING BACK (towards yourself) moves the starship down (towards the bottom of the screen)

PUSHING RIGHT moves the starship towards the right side of the screen.

TWISTING RIGHT sets your starship up to fire its laser to the right.

PUSHING DOWN fires your laser.

PLAY. Starships can move anywhere on the screen. The object is to deplete your opponent's energy reserve while maintaining your own. Energy is depleted in two ways: by firing your lasers or by getting hit by a laser from the opponent's ship. Each time you fire your lasers you use up 2 energy units. Each time you get hit by the opponent's laser, your ship loses 5 energy units. Flying your starship through EITHER starbase will replenish your energy level back to its original 90 units.

Only 40 energy units can be used for firing lasers. After that, you have to replenish your energy supply before you can fire your lasers again. Having 40 energy units for firing lasers translates to having 20 laser shots. If, however, while firing your lasers your energy level drops to 10 units, you will not be able to fire any more laser shots, even though you may not have used up your 20 shots. This is a built-in safety device to keep you from accidentally depleting your energy reserves completely thereby obliterating your own starship.

SCORING. A point is scored each time you obliterate your opponent's starship by running him out of energy units. This is done by depleting his energy reserves before he has a chance to re-energize at a starbase. Each time a point is scored, the S? will appear on the screen asking if you want to start again. Pressing START will re-start the game and re-energize each starship with its original 90 energy units. The ships will remain in the same positions as they were when the point was scored.
